Nickel

Powerful, infinitely customisable and mysterious - Our designs share similar traits with this unique metal - hence the name Nickel. These are the very traits that paved way for the entire concepts of Experiential Design.

XD

XD- Experience Design – lends a fresh and unbeknownst perspective to the way clients and customers look at design. Over the last decade our experience has revolved around designing retail spaces across a wide spectrum of domains ranging from hi-end fashion to one-of-a-kind commercial spaces for corporate giants. Our other speciality is conceptualising and realising innovative and clutter breaking product designs.

How do we do it?

The first of its kind, XD offers its customers transparency right from design concepts and sketches to the finished render. As the customer you will have complete access to every stage of our process.

Why do we do it?

Passionate Passion – is what fuels the creativity at XD. Over our last few years of experience, we have come to observe that good designs become great when they are built around the actual end user – in this case You. By constantly staying in touch with our clients right from the word go, we have been able to reduce miscommunications, guarantee wholehearted satisfaction from either end and manage time effectively.

About the Founder

Nikhil Baveja – the founder of Nickel has finished his Master's in Industrial Design from Pratt Institute, New York. At any point during a given week he can either be found conceptualizing spaces with his team of designers or tweaking design details all the way to completion. In the past has had experience in retail store design, exhibition design as well as product design in New York city as an independent contractor for nine years. In addition he was an adjunct professor at New York City Tech, teaching three-dimensional design, model making and architectural perspective drawing.
